TUVALU

Tuvalu, a group of nine atolls with a total land area of approximately 26 sq km, lies between 5º 30 South and 11º South and 176º East and 180º East. Formerly known as the Ellice Islands, Tuvalu was administered by Great Britain as part of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands from 1892, firstly as a Protectorate and later as a British Colony. The Ellice Islands separated from the Gilbert and Ellice Islands Colony in 1975 and became the Colony of Tuvalu. On 1 October 1978 Tuvalu became an independent state. The islands of Tuvalu are Nanumea, Nanumanga, Niutao, Nui, Vaitupu, Nukufetau, Funafuti, Nukulaelae and Niulakita. The total population of Tuvalu is some 10,297 (July 1997). The capital is Funafuti.

In 1986 Tokelalu adopted a new Constitution. The Head of State of Tuvalu is Queen Elizabeth II, represented by a Governor-General. The Prime Minister, elected by the members of Parliament, is the head of the executive and appoints the Cabinet. Laws are made by a Parliament comprising twelve elected members.

The legal system of Tuvalu derives from the Constitution and Acts of Parliament, the ordinances of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands Colony and the ordinances of the Colony of Tuvalu made prior to 1978, the statutes of general application in force in England on 1 January 1961 and the substance of the English common law and doctrines of equity and the principles expressing Tuvalu values, culture and tradition as set out in the Preamble to the Constitution of 1986 and adopted as part of the basic law of Tuvalu.

A revised edition of the laws of Tuvalu was published in 1990.

Limits of National Jurisdiction

The Marine Zones (Declaration) Act 1983 defines and establishes a twelve mile territorial sea, 24 nautical mile contiguous zone, and a 200 nautical mile exclusive economic zone of approximately 757,000 sq km in size. The Act also enables the Minister to declare archipelagic baselines in accordance with international law. No archipelagic baselines have been declared. Tuvalu claims sovereignty over its land territory and internal waters, archipelagic waters (if any) and the territorial sea. In the exclusive economic zone Tuvalu has sovereign rights for the purpose of exploring and exploiting, conserving and managing the natural resources, whether living or non-living. In the contiguous zone Tuvalu has all the rights necessary to prevent infringement of its customs, fiscal, immigration and sanitary laws and regulations within the territory, territorial sea and archipelagic waters (if any) of Tuvalu. These claims are all consistent with the 1982 Convention on the Law of the Sea.

Tuvalu shares maritime boundaries with Kiribati, Fiji and France in respect of Wallis and Futuna. Although no maritime boundary agreements are in force, those with Fiji and France are close to being finalised.

Fisheries Legislation

The basic fisheries law is the Fisheries Act (Cap.45) as amended. Under the Act, the Minister may take such measures as he may see fit to promote the development of fisheries and fishing in Tuvalu to ensure that the fisheries resources of Tuvalu are exploited to the full, for the benefit of Tuvalu. Apart from conditions relating to the licensing of foreign fishing vessels, there is very little regulation of fisheries in Tuvalu. In earlier times there were well developed systems of traditional resource management but many of these appear to have broken down. Further research is needed to assess whether customary marine tenure systems can be utilised to conserve and manage inshore fisheries resources in Tuvalu.
The National Fisheries Corporation of Tuvalu is established by Act of Parliament for the purpose of exploiting the marine resources of Tuvalu.

The Fisheries Act creates a basic regulatory and licensing framework for the operation of fish processing establishments.

Licensing Requirements

A licence is required for all local fishing vessels. Local fishing vessels are defined in the Fisheries Act as vessels wholly owned by persons resident and domiciled in Tuvalu or owned by a company or fisheries cooperative registered or incorporated in Tuvalu, provided that sailing boats, paddling canoes and boats, punts and barges under seven metres in length are not regarded as fishing vessels for the purposes of the Fisheries Act and are thereby excluded from regulation.

Permits authorising fishing by foreign fishing vessels may be granted by the Fisheries Officer with the approval of the Minister. Permits may be issued to individual vessels in accordance with the Fisheries (Foreign Fishing Vessel) Regulations 1982 and there is no requirement that there be an access agreement in force between the flag state of the vessel or a fishing association and the Government of Tuvalu. The regulations set out the general conditions applicable to foreign fishing permits including provisions as to reporting, marking and identification, maintenance of logbooks and statistical records, placing of fish aggregating devices and observers.

Where it is necessary to give effect to an international agreement or treaty to which the Government of Tuvalu is a party, the Act empowers the Minister by order to provide that fishing licences issued pursuant to such agreements or treaty shall be deemed to be permits issued under the Act. In exercise of this power the Minister made the Foreign Fishing Vessels Licensing (U.S. Treaty) Order 1987 in order to give effect to the provisions of the Treaty on Fisheries Between the Governments of Certain Pacific Island States and the Government of the United States of America.

The penalties for illegal foreign fishing are a fine of A$100,000 for fishing in the exclusive economic zone without a valid permit and, for contravention of a permit, a fine of A$25,000.

Conservation and Management

The Fisheries Act makes it an offence to use explosives, poisons or noxious substances for the purpose of catching fish. The Act gives effect to the Convention for the Prohibition of Fishing with Long Driftnets in the South Pacific by making it an offence, punishable by a fine of $100,000, conservation and management of all species of fish but, to date, no such regulations have been made apart from regulations in 1990 to prohibit all fishing for trochus shell of the species Trochus niloticus.

Regional and International Agreements relating to Fisheries

Tuvalu is a member of the South Pacific Forum and is an ACP state of the European Community. Tuvalu is also a member of the Forum Fisheries Agency and the South Pacific Commission. Tuvalu is a signatory to the United Nations convention on the Law of the Sea. It is a party to the Treaty on Fisheries Between the Governments of Certain Pacific Island States and the Government of the United States of America and signed the Convention for the Prohibition of Fishing with Long Driftnets in the South Pacific on 13 February 1990. Tuvalu signed the Niue Treaty on Cooperation in Fisheries Surveillance and law Enforcement in the South Pacific Region when it was opened for signature on 9 July 1992. Tuvalu became the eighth party to the Nauru Agreement Concerning Cooperation in the Management of Fisheries of Common Concern on 15 May 1991 and is a signatory to the Arrangement for the Management of the Western Pacific Purse Seine Fishery and the Palau Arrangement.
